

Attack on Jharkhand Labourers in Manipur | Jharkhand | 27 May 2024

Why in News?

Laborers from Jharkhand who had migrated to conflict-affected Manipur earlier in 2024, in search of improved opportunities, are now coming back in large numbers following the fatal shooting of one individual and the injury of two others by armed criminals in Imphal.

Key Points

- This marks the first instance of an attack on individuals from outside Manipur since the start of the state's ethnic conflict.
- Such acts of violence against non-locals have contributed to the Union government's decision to repeatedly extend the ban on seven Meitei extremist groups in the state.
 - The longstanding ethnic conflict in Manipur involves the Meitei majority and the Kuki-Zo Scheduled Tribe community.
 - Over 225 casualties have been recorded, with thousands internally displaced as a result.
- An uptick in incidents like abductions and assaults on civilians is attributed to radical outfits such as Arambai Tenggol and members of valley-based insurgent groups like United National Liberation Front (UNLF), due to the large number of missing weapons in the State.
- Tensions between the two communities persist, leading to occasional attacks near the buffer zones separating the hill and valley districts.

Meitei Community

- The Meitei people are also known as Manipuri people.
 - Their primary language is the Meitei language, which is also called Manipuri and is the only official language of Manipur.
- They are predominantly settled in the Imphal Valley, although a significant number reside in other Indian states, such as Assam, Tripura, Nagaland, Meghalaya, and Mizoram.
 - There is also a notable presence of Meitei in the neighboring countries of Myanmar and Bangladesh.
- The Meitei people are divided into clans, and members of the same clan do not intermarry.

CHEQUERED HISTORY

Integration of Naga-inhabited areas of Northeast is the core demand of NSCN-IM which has been holding peace parleys with the Centre. There was violent protest in Manipur In 2001 when the cease fire agreement signed between the Government of India and NSCN IM was extended.

Manipur, which has over 35 communities inhabiting the valleys and hills of the state, has a chequered history of violent and deadly clashes.

Naga-Kuki Fight

The Kukis are hill tribes spread across the Northeast besides Myanmar and the Chittagong Hill Tracts in Bangiadesh. On September 13, 1993, militants of National Socialist Council of Nagaland (Isak Mulvah) massacred around 115 Kuki civillans in the hills of Manipur. However, NSCN-IM refuted the allegation.

The rivalry between Nagas and Kuki started in the colonial era. In 1990 there were clashes over land. Kukis often claimed 350 of their villages were uprooted, over 1,000 killed and 10,000 were people displaced. Chins are called Kukis on the Indian side.

Meitei Pangal and Meiteis

In 1993 there were clashes between Meitel Pangal (Muslim) and Meitel. A bus carrying Muslim passengers was set on fire. Over 100 people were killed.

Insurgency

Manipur had scores of militant outfits and violence was largely triggered by insurgents. The NSCN-IM entered a ceasefire agreement with the Government of India in 1997.

Valley-based militant outfits (Meltel groups) such as the UNLF, PLA, KYKL etc. are yet to come to the negotiating table.

The Kuki outfits under two umbrella groups, the Kuki National Organisation (KNO) and United People's Front (UPF), also signed the tripartite Suspension of Operation (SoO) pacts with the Centre and Manipur on August 22, 2008.

Hill and Valley

The current conflict between Meltels and tribals is the extension of hills versus plains conflict. Meltels account for 35% of the population, while tribal communities account for around 40% of the population. Naga tribes make up for (24%) and Kukl/Zomi tribes (16%).
