

Mains Practice Question

Case Studies

You are working as an executive in a nationalized bank for several years. One day one of your close colleagues tells you that her father is suffering from heart disease and needs surgery immediately to survive. She also tells you that she has no insurance and the operation will cost about Rs. 10 lakh. You are also aware of the fact that her husband is no more and that she is from a lower middle class family. You are empathetic about her situation. However, apart from expressing your sympathy, you do not have the resources to fund her.

A few weeks later, you ask her about the well-being of her father and she informs you about his successful surgery and that he is recovering. She then confides in you that the bank manager was kind enough to facilitate the release of 10 lakh from a dormant account of someone to pay for the operation with a promise that it should be confidential and be repaid at the earliest. She has already started paying it back and will continue to do so until it is all returned.

- A. What are the ethical issues involved?
- B. Evaluate the behavior of the bank manager from an ethical point of view.
- C. How would you react to the situation?

• Ethical issues involved:

- The bank manager's compassionate act of facilitating the release of funds from a dormant account for a colleague's father's surgery, with a promise of confidentiality, raises concerns about fairness, equity, and transparency.
- While the gesture is commendable, it potentially bypasses established banking procedures, possibly constituting an abuse of authority.
- The lack of transparency raises questions about equal treatment of customers. Ensuring timely and fair repayment of the borrowed funds is an ethical responsibility. The colleague's disclosure of the source of the funds also challenges confidentiality.

• Evaluation of behaviour of the bank manager:

- The bank manager's behavior in facilitating the release of funds from a dormant account to help a colleague's father's surgery displays commendable compassion and empathy, reflecting positively on ethical grounds.
- Upholding confidentiality aligns with fundamental banking principles, fostering trust.
- This situation underscores the importance of adhering to established banking procedures and promoting equitable treatment of all clients. It also emphasizes the need for clear ethical guidelines and robust accountability in financial institutions.

• How would you react to the situation?

- In this situation, my response would be empathetic and supportive towards my colleague, acknowledging the challenges she faces with her father's health and financial situation.
- I would express my concern for her well-being and her father's recovery. I would also emphasize the importance of adhering to ethical and legal standards in financial transactions.
- I would encourage her to ensure that all actions, including the use of dormant account funds, are in compliance with banking regulations and conducted transparently.
- I would offer guidance on seeking appropriate channels for financial assistance, so that she can repay the dormant account money ensuring fairness and accountability in the process.
