

Atlantic Charter

Why in News

Recently, the US' President and UK's Prime Minister signed a new version of the 80-year old Atlantic Charter.

Key Points

- Atlantic Charter (1941):
 - The Atlantic Charter was a joint declaration released by US President Franklin D.
 Roosevelt and British Prime Minister Winston Churchill on 14th August, 1941 (during World War II) following a meeting of the two heads of government in Newfoundland.
 - The Atlantic Charter was subsequently incorporated by reference in the Declaration of the United Nations in 1942.
 - World War II was a conflict that involved virtually every part of the world during the years 1939-45.
 - The principal belligerents were:
 - Axis powers: Germany, Italy, and Japan.
 - Allies: France, Great Britain, the United States, the Soviet Union, and, to a lesser extent, China.
 - The Atlantic Charter provided a broad statement of US and British war aims such as:
 - They desired no territorial changes without the free assent of the peoples concerned.
 - They respected every people's right to choose its own form of government and wanted sovereign rights and self-government restored to those forcibly deprived of them.
 - They would try to promote equal access for all states to trade and to raw materials.
 - They hoped to promote worldwide collaboration so as to improve labour standards, economic progress, and social security.
 - The destruction of "Nazi tyranny," (Germany) they would look for a peace under which all nations could live safely within their boundaries, without fear or want.
 - Under such a peace the seas should be free.
 - Pending a general security through renunciation of force, potential aggressors must be disarmed.
- New Atlantic Charter (2021):
 - The new charter, a 604-word declaration, is an effort to stake out a grand vision for global relationships in the 21st century, just as the original was a declaration of a Western commitment to democracy and territorial integrity just months before the US entered World War II.
 - It is a statement of principles, a promise that the UK and the US would meet the challenges

- of their age together. It calls for both countries to adhere to the rules-based international order.
- The new charter focuses on climate change and the need to protect biodiversity. With references to emerging technologies, cyberspace and sustainable global development.
- It calls on Western allies to oppose interference through disinformation or other malign influences, including in elections.
 - It ranks the threats to democratic nations in a technological era.
- It vows that as long as there are nuclear weapons, North Atlantic Treaty Organisation (NATO) will remain a nuclear alliance.
- Opportunity for India:
 - The old Atlantic Charter alienated Indian nationalism from the West but the new Charter and the rebooting of western institutions should facilitate a productive phase of India's cooperation with the US and its allies.
 - In 1941, the UK insisted that the principle of self-determination highlighted in the charter did not apply to India.
 - However, the presence of India and South Africa along with Australia and South Korea (as guests) at the G-7 summit 2021 is a recognition of the urgent imperative to widen the basis of the West in dealing with global challenges.
 - The current Anglo-American effort to institutionalise western consultations with India is a long overdue correction.
 - Indian Prime Minister, who is remotely joining the discussions at the G-7 summit (2021), has an opportunity to signal a commitment to both address perceptions about shrinking democratic freedoms within India and offer substantive collaboration with the western democracies on global issues.
