Why in News?

The Supreme Court \(SC\) of India has recently directed several states and Union Territories (UTs) to provide comprehensive details regarding the functioning of open prisons within their jurisdictions.

- This directive comes in the wake of ongoing concerns about prison congestion, a matter that has drawn the Court's attention.

Why is the Supreme Court Focused on Open Prisons?

- Prison Overcrowding: The SC sees open prisons as a potential solution to address the chronic issue of overcrowding in traditional prisons.
 - The concept aims to reduce the psychological stress that convicts face when reintegrating into normal life after incarceration.
 - By shifting some prisoners to open-air facilities, the overall population in high-security, closed prisons is reduced. This redistribution of inmates alleviates the pressure on conventional jails, which often face severe overcrowding.
- SC's Role in Ensuring Compliance: By emphasizing the need for comprehensive information on the functioning of open prisons, the Supreme Court aims to ensure that states and UTs are actively implementing this model as part of their correctional systems.
 - The Court's focus also reflects its broader mandate to oversee the protection of prisoners' rights and promote more effective prison management.

What are Open Prisons?

- About: Semi-open or open prisons (jails) are correctional facilities designed without the traditional high walls, barbed wire, and armed guards. Instead, they rely on inmate self-discipline and community engagement. Unlike traditional closed jails.
 - Open jails, based on the reformative theory of justice, focus on rehabilitating inmates rather than solely punishing them. This approach emphasizes transforming prisoners into law-abiding citizens through self-discipline and community integration.
- Historical Context: The first open prison in India, established in 1905 in the Bombay Presidency, initially used prisoners as unpaid labour for public works.
 - Over time, the concept evolved, emphasising reformation over deterrence. Post-independence, the first open prison annexe was set up in Lucknow in 1949, leading to a full-fledged facility in 1953, where inmates helped build the Chandraprabha dam.

- Post-independence, Constitutional Court rulings addressing inhumane prison conditions prompted a shift in prison management, emphasising reform and rehabilitation.
 - Courts urged states to ensure fair wages and support reintegration, leading to the rise of open prisons as a reformative approach.
- Features: Inmates have the freedom to leave the prison during certain hours and are expected to support themselves and their families through work.
 - Rajasthan Open Air Camp Rules, 1972 defines open prisons as "prisons without walls, bars, and locks." Inmates must return before the second roll call after leaving the prison.
- Types of Open Prisons: The Model Prison Manual classifies open prison institutions in India into three types:
 - Semi-Open Training Institutions: Attached to closed prisons with moderate security.
 - Open Training Institutions/Work Camps: Focus on public works and vocational training.
 - Open Colonies: Allow family members to live with inmates, with opportunities for employment and self-sufficiency.
- Eligibility: Every state law defines the eligibility criteria of inmates who can be in an open prison.
 - The principal rule is that an inmate eligible for open air prison has to be a convict. Good conduct in prison and at least five years spent in a controlled jail are the rules followed by the Rajasthan open prisons.
 - In West Bengal, a committee of jail and police officials selects prisoners with a good conduct record for transfer to open jails.
- Legal Framework: Prisons and prisoners are mentioned in Entry No. 4 of List II (State List) of the 7th Schedule of the Constitution of India, making them a State subject.
 - Prisons in India are governed by the Prisons Act, 1894, and Prisoners Act, 1900 and each state follows their prison rules and manuals.
- International Perspective: Open prisons have been part of global correctional systems for centuries. Early examples include Switzerland's Witzwill (1891) and the UK's New Hall Camp (1936).
 - The UN General Assembly's Nelson Mandela Rules 2015 advocate for open prison systems to aid rehabilitation, emphasising prisoner rights to employment and outside contact.
- Recommendations: The Supreme Court, in the Rama Murthy v. State of Karnataka case 1996, endorsed the expansion of open jails. Various committees, including the All India Prison Reforms Committee in 1980, have recommended the establishment of open prisons across states.
 - The National Human Rights Commission (NHRC) advocated the need for open prisons and how they could solve prison overcrowding in several of its annual reports from 1994-95 and 2000-01.

- In India, there are three levels of prisons: Taluka, district, and central (zonal/range) level. The jails at these levels are known as sub-jails, district jails, and central jails, respectively.
 - There are also other types of jails, such as women's jails, Borstal schools, open jails, and special jails.
- Central Jail: The criteria for central jails vary across states, but they typically house prisoners sentenced to long-term imprisonment, often more than two years, including lifers and those who have committed heinous crimes.
 - The focus in these jails is on re-establishing the morality and integrity of the prisoners.
- District Jail: District jails are the main jails for those states and union territories where there is no central jail.
- Sub Jail: Smaller than district jails, serving at the sub-divisional level with well-organised and better-set-up prisons.

- Other Jails: Jails which do not fall under the above mentioned categories then these jails come under the category of other jails. Only three states have other jails.
