Jivitputrika Festival

Why in News?

Recently, at least 46 people, including 37 children, drowned in rivers and ponds during the 'Jivitputrika' festival in Bihar.

Key Points

- Jivitputrika:
 - Jivitputrika, also known as Jitiya Vrat, is a Hindu festival celebrated mainly in northern and eastern India, particularly in Bihar, Uttar Pradesh, and Jharkhand.
 - The festival is observed by mothers who fast for the well-being, long life, and prosperity of their children.
 - The celebration lasts for three days.
 - Nahai-Khai: The festival begins with mothers taking a purifying bath and enjoying a nourishing meal.
 - Fasting Day: The second day is marked by the rigorous fasting ritual.
 - Paaran: The festival concludes on the third day, where the fast is broken with a meal.
 - The festival is rooted in Hindu mythology, particularly commemorating the story of King Jimutavahana, who is honored for his sacrifice for the welfare of others.

Bihar Festivals

- Chhath Puja: An ancient Hindu festival that honors the sun god and his wife, Usha. It is celebrated six days after Diwali and is native to Bihar, Jharkhand, and Uttar Pradesh.
