

Crisis Management Involving Ethical Challenges

Suppose you are the district collector of Balasore district in Odisha where three trains collided. The incident has resulted in many casualties, injuries, and a crisis within the district.

There are many people who need urgent treatment, there are many unidentified bodies, there are children who lost their parents and are unable to contact their relatives. The district medical facility is not adequate to facilitate such many injured persons.

Moreover, there is an influx of visitors, including politicians, volunteers, and concerned individuals, further complicating the situation.

As the District Collector of Balasore district in Odisha, you find yourself facing a catastrophic event following a collision involving three trains. Describe the ethical challenges you face and outline the principles and strategies you would employ to address them effectively

PDF Reference URL: <https://www.drishtias.com/printpdf/crisis-management-involving-ethical-challenges>

